WATCH HOMES SWEEPED AWAY

Inhabitants of Shawneetown, Ill. Are
Helpless as Flood Carries
Houses Out of Sight.

BACK WATER AT EVANSVILLE

Missouri National Guardsmen Are
Rescued From Perilous Position
on Broken Levee by a Tug.

(By American Press.)
Shawneetown, Ill., April 3.—Little remains of Shawneetown today. Practically every house in the city has been swept away by the river. The levee was blown up with dynamite yesterday to avert the destruction of the place, but the expected result was obtained.
There was no loss of life because the inhabitants were prepared for the worst. They have been encamped back of the city since the flood began to threaten. The residents were compelled to sit helpless in the camp and watch the destruction of their property at hundreds of thousands of dollars loss.

NATIONAL GUARD MAROONED

(By American Press.)
Cairo, Ill., April 3.—The Ohio river continued to rise here today. The big levees are still holding but this city and surrounding country is not yet out of danger.
The wealthiest men in the city are working shoulder to shoulder with the negroes and other laborers in banking the levees with sand bags to make them more able to withstand the constant washing of the current which is growing stronger.
Thirty-six members of the Missouri national guard were marooned on a part of the broken levee last night and it was feared they could not be recovered because of the velocity of the water.
Today they were taken off by the tender of the Illinois naval reservoir. The tender was unable to stem the swift current of the Ohio and was being carried down stream into a dangerous position, when the tug boat Thesis went to her assistance and towed her ashore.

PART OF THE CITY FLOODED

(By American Press.)
Evansville, Ind., April 3.—Although Evansville has passed through the worst flood in its history, the business section of the city is comparatively dry because of the activity of the street gangs.
The flood reached the stage of forty-seven feet here this morning at seven o'clock. The back water has flooded a part of the fashionable residence district but no great damage was done.

3 YEARS AT HARD LABOR

(By American Press.)
London, April 3.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette leader, was sentenced today to serve three years at hard labor, the verdict being quickly returned by the jury. Mrs. Pankhurst stated that she had expected conviction but was defiant to the last. She made a statement in which she stated that she was responsible for the destruction of the Lloyd George house.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capp and daughter Miss Fanny have returned from a visit through the west and northwest.

ASKS FOR $5,000 ALIMONY

Rebecca J. Brosius Files Suit For Divorce From Husband.

Rebecca J. Brosius has filed a suit for a divorce from Walter G. Brosius for alleged abandonment and non-support. Brosius is a poultryman at Knightstown and his wife asks that he pay her $50 a month for the support of herself and two minor children. She asks $100 attorneys fees and $5,000 alimony. They were married in March 1909. The court granted a restraining order to prevent her husband from disposing of their furniture.

C. H. & D. RUNS FIRST TRAIN SINCE FLOOD

Bridge at Morristown Still Out And
Service to Indianapolis is Through Shirley.

OTHER ROADS IMPROVING

The first C. H. & D. train in over a week passed through here this morning but it was forced to go by way of Shirley and then down here over the Big Four. The Morristown bridge is still out and all trains will be sent over this route until the bridge is repaired. The company hoped to have the bridge in so that the trains could go direct to Indianapolis by today but the work was delayed. The train going through this morning was number 31 and was due here at 9:04 o'clock. The schedule announced a few days ago is now in effect and the trains run between Indianapolis and West Hamilton, Ohio.
The Big Four is now running trains on scheduled time and the Chicago division is open between Greensburg and Indianapolis. The service on the local division extends from Louisville to Benton Harbor. The Pennsylvania still maintains a service of one train each way between Richmond and Shelbyville. The I. & C. is rapidly getting the bridge at Morristown in place and hopes to have cars running not later than Sunday.

JAMES M. STRICKER DEAD

Pased Away This Morning at Home in Orange.

James M. Stricker, 83 years old, died this morning at 6:15 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Edward McClanahan in Orange. Mr. Stricker had been ill a long time, suffering from a complication of diseases and death was expected. He had made his home with Mrs. McClanahan for several years, his wife having died seven years ago. Mr. Stricker is survived by one son, Harry Stricker of this city and one sister Mrs. J. W. Linvale of Glenwood. The funeral services will be held Saturday morning in the Orange M. E. church and burial will take place in the north cemetery.

CHANCE TO EARN 5 DOLLARS

Reward For Ring Left in Trousers
Given Flood Sufferers.

If a flood sufferer in Rushville who received a pair of trousers from the relief committee will search them carefully he may make five dollars. Dr. W. H. Smith has lost a gold Scottish ring which he prized very highly, and he believes that he left it in a pocket in the trousers which he gave to the committee to be used to the factory in the late spring or damaged by the flood. He offers a reward of five dollars for its return.

COUNCIL HAS TO MEET VERY SOON

Unforeseen Complications Will Necessitate Calling of Special Session of County Appropriating Body.

ESTIMATES ARE BEING MADE

Surveyor Inspecting Roads and
Bridges Washed by Flood. Can't
All be Done at Once.

An early meeting of the county council will have to be called to make additional appropriations to pay the expenses of the county for the year 1913—expenses which were unforeseen when the last special session of the council was held just after the flood.
The burden of the meeting will be to appropriate funds to replace the bridges and culverts damaged by the flood and to rebuild and repair the roads that were washed out by the high water. Adolphus Cameron, county surveyor, is now busily engaged in preparing an estimate which will be submitted to the county council. It will be his duty to visit every part of the county where the floods wrought havoc to the bridges and roads.
The county commissioners will also assist in the inspection of destruction done by the high water. The board has returned from Williamstown where it held a joint meeting with the Decatur county board of commissioners concerning the damage done a Decatur-Rush county line bridge.
It has already been estimated that the damage to bridges and roads alone in Rush county will reach the enormous sum of two hundred thousand dollars. It will readily be seen that this will be some task for the county commissioners to let all of these contracts for repair and rebuilding.
It can not all be done, of course, and no step even can be taken by the board, except in looking over the situation and helping with the estimates until the county council has made an appropriation. Already there has been an insistent demand from some parts of the county for an early repair of roads and bridges.
There are many cases where bridges were washed out on main lines of travel. In some instances the farmers could not reach Rushville until the waters had gone down. In other cases the farmers have to make wide detours and drive miles out of their way to reach Rushville. Bridges being out alone have not caused the only inconveniences. There are some roads in southern Rush county which were completely washed away, it is said, and will have to be rebuilt entirely.
It is feared that the big flood damage may hinder the payment of taxes. Not that farmers can not reach Rushville by the end of the time for the payment of the spring installment, the first Monday in May, but many of them have suffered such heavy losses that they may find their funds short. For this reason it is believed that there will be more delinquent taxes at the end of the time for the spring installment than there have been in Rush county for years.
Incidentally the county council may have some other little matters in which deficiency appropriations will be needed. The last legislature passed a bill increasing the daily pay of circuit court jurors from two to two and a half dollars a day. This law was not in effect when the 1913 original appropriation was made, and the pay for jurors was considered as being two dollars a day.
Mr. and Mrs. Lew Oneal have moved to the Frazier farm a short distance west of the city, which they recently purchased. Mr. and Mrs. John Frazier and family have moved to Rushville.

TO OPEN THEM TO EXAMINATIONS

Pres. Wilson Makes Executive Order to Annul Taft's and Roosevelt's Acts.

FOURTH CLASS POSTOFFICES

Will Be Thrown Open to Examination to Appease Wrath of Democratic Office Seekers.

President Wilson's first executive order has been prepared and is ready to be issued, according to Washington dispatches. It is an order that will affect at least 1,000 postmasters in Indiana. It is probable that it may be issued at any time.
The order annuls the executive orders of Roosevelt and Taft covering fourth-class postmasters under the civil service blanket and throws all such offices where the receipts are $500 a year or more open to civil service examinations.
The order will affect eight fourth-class postmasters in Rush county, and about the same number in all adjoining counties. The postmasters of this class in this county who will be placed under civil service by this order are at New Salem, Milroy Manilla, Arlington, Carthage, Falmouth, Mays and Glenwood.
This order is expected to have two notable results. It will bring about wholesale resignations of fourth-class postmasters who will refuse to take the examinations and it will terminate in giving at least half, and perhaps a considerable majority, of these offices to Democrats.
The order was written by Postmaster General Burleson, and is approved by President Wilson. It also is approved by the Civil Service more than 50,000 postmasters in the United States.
The order has the approval of Senators Shively and Kern and all of the Indiana representatives who are in Washington. It is believed it will be a partial step toward appeasing Democrats who want to see some of the offices passed out to Democrats.
A flood of resignations is expected as soon as the order is issued. Two signed today, Earl Heaston at Deerfield, Randolph county, and J. L. Richards at Treaty, Wabash county. C. A. Wall was appointed to succeed the former and E. E. Duffey to succeed the latter.

MORRISTOWN ASKS TO VOTE

Persons Favoring Establishment of Saloons Petition for Election.

Persons favoring the establishment of saloons in Hanover township and Morristown filed a petition before the Shelby county auditor asking the commissioners to call an election to settle the question, and the petition will likely be acted upon early next week, as the commissioners will be in session again next Monday for the regular April term. The petition bears one hundred six signatures, which is considerably more than the twenty per cent of the voters as required by law. The wets intended to file the petition two months ago, but the matter was dropped at the time.
A township in Kosciusko county has voted "wet" by seven votes. A township and town in White county voted "dry" with a majority of thirteen. Jackson township in Morgan county went "dry" by 130 majority.

GOING BACK TO MADISON.

Tom Worthington has been admitted to the asylum at Madison and will be taken as soon as the railway facilities permit. He has been in the county jail for the past week. This is Worthington's second trip to Madison.

COURSE OF RIVER CHANGED

Flatrock Now Has New Channel
Near St. Paul.

The high waters of last week changed the course of Flatrock in numerous places near St. Paul. Just below the town, near where the Bickhart mill formerly stood and at that is known as "Drusey," the river takes across the road to the north and passed through a field and thence back into its original channel only to again take out across the road and back to its regular course. The high water also washed many fish out on the banks.

ADDITION MAY BE BUILT TO FACTORY

Charles E. Francis Co. Contemplates
Improvement Which Will be Larger Than Recent One.

IS NOT DEFINITELY SETTLED

The Charles E. Francis Company, manufacturers of wood working machinery, may build another addition to the factory in the late spring or summer. It was stated at the factory today that the project had been seriously considered and that it might be consummated, although definite conclusion had not been reached.
In all probability, if built the addition will be located west of the present two buildings which front on the railroad just south of the Innis-Pearce furniture factory. The addition will probably be two stories high, and about sixty by a hundred and twenty feet.
This company built an addition to the original building a year ago last spring. The front portion of the building of two stories is used for offices, and the back part which is the ware room, although of the same height, is only one story. This addition is thirty by a hundred and twenty feet.

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Ottinger Succumbs From Complication of Diseases.

Mrs. Evaline N. Ottinger, 77 years old, wife of Martin Ottinger, died this morning about three o'clock at her home in West Third street. Mrs. Ottinger had been ill for several months suffering from a complication of diseases and death was expected. She is survived by her husband and two children, Mrs. William Harding of this city and Mrs. Edward Hunter of Franklin county. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the late residence at two o'clock. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

TO BEGIN WORK AT ONCE

Gun and Country Club Prepares for
Tennis and Shoot.

The first big shoot at the Rushville Gun and Country Club will be held July 16th, when, it is believed, the best men in the profession will be here. It will be a registered tournament. Work will be started at once to make repairs where the flood did damage to the grounds. A trap which was washed out has been found near the railroad bridge over the race. At the meeting this week Dr. P. H. Chadwick was elected president; Dr. Carl F. Behr, vice-president; Will C. McColgin, secretary, and Wilbur Stiers, treasurer. The directors are Ben A. Cox, Carl F. Behr, F. M. Sparks, P. H. Chadwick, R. C. Hargrove, Wilbur Stiers and W. C. McColgin.

WIFE DIES IN HUSBAND'S ARMS

Mrs. Clarence Dillon Breathes Last
When Refuge From Piqua
Flood is Only Few Feet Away.

LUCID LETTER FROM DILLON

Describes Agony he and Family Suffered as House Floated Down
River and Struck Bridge.

From the pen of a man, Clarence Dillon, who passed through the most fearful experience possible in the Piqua flood and still escaped with his life, who had the heart rending experience of feeling his wife die in his arms when a refuge was only a few feet away, comes the lucid story of the rescue of himself and his children as their house, with them on the roof, floated down the river and struck the railroad bridge. Mr. Dillon and family moved from here to Piqua a few years ago. The letter was received by his aunt, Mrs. Selman Webb, 926 West Third street.
"For four days, beginning Easter Sunday," he says, "the rain fell incessantly. Monday there was a cloudburst. No one seemed to think there would be any danger and very few left their homes. I was up in town that awful Monday night to see the river which was on such a terrible rampage. I came home and told Abbie (his wife) about it and she thought we had better get our chickens in the house. We did, and just as we were carrying the last ones in, the levee broke about four squares north of us and here came the water rushing down the street.
"It was impossible then to get away. Everybody took what they could with them upstairs. In three hours the water was eighteen feet around our house and steadily rising. It was impossible for men to describe the terrible suspense of that awful night. I would have gone crazy had I been a wicked man. I trusted to Him and did all in my power to comfort Abbie and the children. Many times that night we knelt and asked God to help save us. Abbie was awful brave.
"All about us we could hear men and women crying piteously for help. We could see houses leaving their foundations and going down the current which went by our house.
"All night long we watched the water, hoping and praying it would recede. At last morning came, but with no help. About nine o'clock Tuesday morning the water entered our upstairs rooms. I stood upon a chifferonier, and with the stand of a shoe last, made a hole and pushed the family up into the attic. I then made a hole through the roof.
"About eleven o'clock, the water being twenty-two feet deep all around us, our house was lifted from its foundation and down into that terrible current it went. We were all huddled into a little group. Abbie was sitting in front of me, Merle on the right of me and the rest of the children to the left. I gave up all hope and then told Abbie we would all be together in a better world. Only those who have been in my situation can know what feelings I had.
"I can hear Abbie and those little children praying and begging for help, and I could not help them, and above that to hear the house twisting and breaking apart. I closed my eyes when crash went our house against something and stopped. We were all pinioned so tight we could not move. All of us except Abbie and Dwight began to cry for help.
"It was the railroad bridge and we were wedged between it and a new cement abutment that was erected this summer. Six or eight men immediately began to dig into the wreckage with saws and crowbars. Glen was the first released, and he told them that there were

River Improvement.

In the springs of past years the floods in the river bottoms of the streams of the middle west have risen slowly and the loss of property and life has been small as compared to the flood of last week. The present flood is more in the nature of a sudden calamity, an unannounced and unprepared for devastating deluge. The loss of life has been appalling. So closely are families all over the country connected that there can scarcely be a city in any state which does not number many who must mourn relatives lost in one or more of the storms or floods. The nearness of it all and our personal interest in the victims and place are apt to give us a wrong perspective, and cause us to forget that only last year 40,000 were drowned by floods in China, and that great disasters have caused larger loss of life in other countries at various times without making much impression upon us. We have need to remember these things in times of personal trial.

The nature of the floods in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Dayton, Hamilton and other places where there has been such loss of life is quite different from the overflow floods of our large rivers in times of continued rains. They were caused by the sudden rise of water in comparatively small streams from torrential rains.

Cities along such streams, especially if built on low ground, are constantly in danger from such an overwhelming whenever the proper conditions occur. No general scheme of river improvement and flood control for our large rivers, such as the convention soon to be held in St. Louis will consider, would have much effect in averting calamities of this character. They are a penalty we pay for building our cities on low ground.

We are reminded that once upon a time not many years back it was proposed that Flatrock be straightened and dredged. This proposal met with derision in many quarters. Yet that improvement could have been made at a cost which would have been a small figure compared to the present loss in Rush county.

Yet, while river improvement can not do much to avert such sudden overflowing of their banks by small streams, every facility for the quick passage of water from the interior to the sea must have some effect in that direction. Certainly these floods and their terrible toll of life and property will stimulate sentiment for national river improvement and flood control, and the convention about to meet in St. Louis seems to have hit upon the psychological moment to get a hearing from the people and their representatives in Washington.

ART EXHIBIT
OPENS TODAY

Graham School Houses Collection of

Two Hundred Pictures Including

Masterpieces of all Ages.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO ASSIST

Proceeds Will be Used to Buy Art
With Which to Beautify The Public Schools.

The art exhibit was open to the public at the Graham school building this afternoon at one-thirty o'clock. The exhibit may be seen this evening from 7:30 to 9 o'clock and tomorrow afternoon and night at the same hours as today.

The exhibit has a local tinge. The proceeds will be used to buy pictures to beautify the public schools. Both this evening and tomorrow evening entertainment will be given by the school children to add to the enjoyment of the occasion. The audience will be shown over the building and will see some of the work of the public school.

The collection of art consists of about two hundred pictures in reproduction of the world's greatest masterpieces of architecture, sculpture and painting. The pictures are alike interesting to all ages and classes of people, and enthusiastic expressions of appreciation are heard on all sides.

The pictures are arranged chronologically and grouped geographically, following the east, north and west wall, and finishing with comparatively modern English and American art on the entrance side of the hall.

The collection has a distinctly educational purpose in view, being arranged to show the development of art from the pyramids and temples of Egypt through the fine old classic architecture and sculpture, Italian painting, Dutch, French, Spanish, English and American.

Most of the pictures are reproduced in carbon process, but there are a few engravings and a group of color work representing the drawings of modern German artists, made originally on stone. There are also two intensely brilliant Venetian pictures, one of St. Mark's Cathedral, and the other a scene along the picturesque Grand Canal. The pictures are most interesting and are the finest collection of their kind ever shown in this city.

Genuine artistic merit is the quality for which they have been chosen, and the selection has been made by some of the most eminent art critics of this country. The pictures themselves are not on sale, nor are orders solicited.

COMMENTS ARE IN PRAISE OF MORRIS
 Rushville Boy Wins Honors at Peoples Symphony Concert in Carnegie Hall, New York.
 HAS PART IN JOINT RECITAL

Carl Morris, formerly of this city, was one of the soloists at a recital at Carnegie hall in New York a week ago Sunday, and the delayed mails have just now brought word of his pronounced triumph.
 The New York Evening Telegram says there "were seven recalls for Carl Morris at the People's symphony concert in Carnegie hall yesterday afternoon. Mr. Morris sang Renato's recitative and aria "Eni Tu" from Verdi's "The Masked Ball." He has a clear, resonant voice, and used it with grace and understanding. His style is essentially dramatic and there is every indication that Mr. Morris' future lies in that field."
 The New York Herald is equally as enthusiastic in its praise: "To many in the audience the remarkable similarity between his (Morris') and Riccardo Martin's voice was apparent, even though one is baritone and the other tenor. Mr. Morris' voice is one of ample volume and appealing resonance."
 The New York Evening Mail says: "The third orchestral concert in the thirteenth season of Mr. Arens, educational work had as soloists Carl Morris and Maximilian Pilzer."
 "Mr. Morris sang in place of John Barnes Wells, whose appearance will be deferred until next season. He brought to the concert stage a fresh young voice of fine resonance and carrying power, with exceptional breath control."
 "Mr. Morris well deserved the seven recalls, and it may be said incidentally that for a number of years his studies have been made under Mr. Arens."

TEST WELL WILL BE DUG VERY SOON
 Knightstown is Excited Over Discovery of Oil in Vicinity—300 Acre Farm Leased.
 BLUFFTON MAN IN THE FIELD

It is now almost assured that a test well for oil will be drilled in the vicinity of Knightstown within ninety days.
 R. K. Souder of Bluffton, who recently leased the Edmund White farm of over 300 acres, just north-east of Knightstown, has followed this lease with others in the same vicinity, and now has 900 acres under lease. Mr. Souder states that he will not sink a test well until he gets at least 1,200 acres, but that he has this practically in sight.
 Some will not sign leases because they do not like "the smell" of crude oil, but none object to the "long green" that will follow a lease provided oil is found. Several years ago a gas well west of the town, near the bridge over Montgomery creek, flowed a small quantity of oil.

ANOTHER HONEST MAN.
 The noble aid and help given to the flood sufferers by the people of the United States was another very severe blow to the pessimist who declares the world is growing worse instead of better, says the Shelbyville Democrat. The pessimist was also given another severe blow this morning when August Coers, a prominent farmer of Orange township, Rush county, found a pocketbook containing sixty dollars or more in money, checks and note, three miles east of Blue Ridge, while on his way to this city. After examining the contents of the pocketbook he learned the owner was Floyd Branson, of Gowdy, and when he reached Blue Ridge telephoned him. Mr. Branson had been breaking a colt and had driven along the road at the place in a heavy cart. The pocketbook worked out of his pocket in some manner.

DESPAIRING NOTE IN PIQUA LETTER
 Mrs. Chase Saddler Writes Relatives She Wishes She Had Gone Down With Her Home.
 HARDENED BY EXPERIENCE
 Works in Morgue With Embalmers Over Bodies of Her Own Relatives. Unbelievable Stories.

The note of despair that is in the hearts of the people of Piqua, Dayton and other Ohio cities, where the flood caused a heavy loss of life and property, is sounded in the opening sentence of a letter written by Mrs. Chase Saddler, formerly of this city and a survivor of the Piqua flood, to Mrs. Lewis Saddler of this city.
 "I suppose you know by this time that we are alive," she writes, "but I almost wish we had gone down with our furniture. We haven't a thing to our name except a few things we saved, such as a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes."
 "Martha was drowned, and I almost went down with her. Grace is dead, and Chase and I are the only man and wife left out of our bunch. I was in the water a half hour trying to save my mother."
 "We were at Hattie's Monday night when the police came horseback and yelled for us to run. We saw the water coming. It was terrible. Chase grabbed Russell and I took my mother. We stepped out of the door to our waists in water and felt it rising higher every second. I dragged my mother to our house, because it is higher, but I thought we would drown every moment."
 "They shouted for us to run to the hills. The water was higher than a man's head. People went to their attics and dug holes in their roof, and such screams I never heard in all my life. The water was up to their necks and little babies were held up above water to keep them from drowning. I can shut my eyes now and see them going down."
 "We went through everything but death to get to the old homestead. We had to walk on ladders over deep gullies, holding on to ropes. I think I lost my senses because I do not remember anything until they put dry clothes on me."
 We stood on the hill and watched dozens drown. I saw Martha, Frank and Grace and seven others on a house top, when the house was swept off the foundation. They clung to the roof and dozens floated along beside them. The house struck something and they were thrown into the air. They all drowned except Frank and George who hung to a tree for more than a day before help could reach them. Frank was half dead.
 "They are bringing the bodies to the house where we are. Another woman and I are laying them out. We had to tear the frozen clothes from their bodies."
 Mrs. Saddler concluded the letter the next day. It is written on the fly leaves, yellow with age, taken from an old book.
 "The water flowed over the top of our house, but has gone down now so we can get in. There isn't fifty cents worth of furniture left. Everything is smashed to pieces. The mud is eight inches deep on the walls and floor."
 "There are hundreds of soldiers on guard, but still people are stealing. The guards this afternoon arrested a man who had four fingers off a dead woman's hand, with rings on them, in his pocket."
 "I can hardly realize yet that we are safe. I am so hardened by laying out these dead, frozen bodies and working here in the morgue with these undertakers that I think nothing will ever affect me again."
 "Chase and some men found Grace's frozen body hanging on a thorn tree yesterday. We had to tear her clothes off. I help the undertaker embalm her and never shed a tear. I feel like I was in a trance."
 "I could tell you people things you wouldn't think could be real. One man cut his throat just as his house struck the bridge and one woman suddenly became a raving maniac while her husband and five little children clung to the roof of their house as it floated down the river. Her husband had to tie her fast with the bed clothing they had to keep warm with. There was no way to reach them.

 "Some hung to trees and wreckage for 36 hours in the bitter cold. We watched Frank cling to broken parts of houses for 12 hours yelling for help before we could get him out. They are fishing out bodies on both sides of the river. I have stood it pretty well, but if they bring me Martha's body, I can never lay it out because I am about done for."

more under there. Florence was next. Glen and she have not a scratch. Marion was taken next. Her ankle was mashed. Merle's shoe had to be cut from his foot to release him. Dwight was next. I thought he was dead, but he was only unconscious, both bones in his left leg being broken. I was sawed out next and have a wrenched back but no broken bones.

"I had both arms around Abbie's neck. She was very still. In a moment there was a slight trembling of the body, and I knew God had taken her.

"We, except Abbie, were hurried to the Y. M. C. A. building, our wounds were dressed, we were taken to a minister's home and then to mother's. Those men, when they saw Abbie was dead and that it was impossible to release her without endangering their own lives, put a rope around her body and tied it to the bridge. But the current was so swift that the rope broke.

"Wednesday morning she was seen to be lodged in a tree four or five squares below the bridge. An expert oarman from Cincinnati, who saved many lives, ventured across and tied a rope around her body. It took twenty-five men to pull her body through that current.

"Just to show you how strong the current was, a box car loaded with cement was carried two squares from the track. An iron car loaded with crushed stone was carried a square away.

"We buried Abbie Friday. Her body was the first one found. I bought a lot and thought it best to bury her here where we could take care of her grave and have her as near us as possible. Twenty-six bodies have been found to date and many more are missing."

A petition is being circulated here by W. E. Wallace and Alva Newhouse to aid Mr. Dillon. The paper was being signed freely today and it is expected that considerable money can be sent to Piqua. The petition is headed by the local Odd Fellows lodge, which subscribed $25.

RETURNS TO WORK IN NEW YORK CITY

Miss Edith Holden Receives Promotion to Y. M. C. A. Extension Work After Enforced Vacation.

FATHER RECOGNIZES PICTURE

While A. R. Holden, county auditor, was looking through the current issue of the "Good Housekeeping" magazine, he noticed a picture, illustrating an article by Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of President Wilson, which attracted his attention. One girl in the picture looked strangely familiar. At a second glance he was convinced that it was that of his daughter, Miss Edith Holden, who, until last year was a Y. W. C. A. worker in New York City.

It developed that the picture was one taken at the Silver Ice conference, Lake George, New York, of Y. W. C. A. workers. Miss Holden was plainly shown in the picture that was of a May pole dance. Miss Holden and one other delegate represented the western New York branch of the Y. W. C. A. Formerly she was assistant secretary. She was taken sick with diphtheria last summer and had to return home. During the winter Miss Holden acted as assistant pastor and social worker of the Main Street Christian church. She left last evening for New York where she will take up her chosen work. Miss Holden has been promoted to assistant secretary of extension work.

ONE CASE DISMISSED.

It was again quiet in court today, very little of importance coming before Judge Megee. The case of the Arlington Bank against Oliver Offutt, on a note, demanding $780 was dismissed and the costs paid. In the suit of Glenna H. Hall against Howard A. Overleese, for conveyance of real estate, the court found for the plaintiff.

RALEIGH COMMENCEMENT.

The commencement exercises of the Raleigh high school were held last night in the town hall there. The Rev. L. E. Brown of Connorsville delivered the class address in the absence of James E. Watson, who was unable to attend on account of a previous engagement. This year's class consisted of six members.

WATCH HOMES SWEEPED AWAY

Inhabitants of Shawneetown, Ill. Are
Helpless as Flood Carries
Houses Out of Sight.

BACK WATER AT EVANSVILLE

Missouri National Guardsmen Are
Rescued From Perilous Position
on Broken Levee by a Tug.

(By American Press.)

Shawneetown, Ill., April 3.—Little remains of Shawneetown today. Practically every house in the city has been swept away by the river. The levee was blown up with dynamite yesterday to avert the destruction of the place, but the expected result was obtained.

There was no loss of life because the inhabitants were prepared for the worst. They have been encamped back of the city since the flood began to threaten. The residents were compelled to sit helpless in the camp and watch the destruction of their property at hundreds of thousands of dollars loss.

NATIONAL GUARD MAROONED

(By American Press.)

Cairo, Ill., April 3.—The Ohio river continued to rise here today. The big levees are still holding but this city and surrounding country is not yet out of danger.

The wealthiest men in the city are working shoulder to shoulder with the negroes and other laborers in banking the levees with sand bags to make them more able to withstand the constant washing of the current which is growing stronger.

Thirty-six members of the Missouri national guard were marooned on a part of the broken levee last night and it was feared they could not be recovered because of the velocity of the water.

Today they were taken off by the tender of the Illinois naval reservoir. The tender was unable to stem the swift current of the Ohio and was being carried down stream into a dangerous position, when the tug boat Thesis went to her assistance and towed her ashore.

PART OF THE CITY FLOODED

(By American Press.)

Evansville, Ind., April 3.—Although Evansville has passed through the worst flood in its history, the business section of the city is comparatively dry because of the activity of the street gangs.

The flood reached the stage of forty-seven feet here this morning at seven o'clock. The back water has flooded a part of the fashionable residence district but no great damage was done.

3 YEARS AT HARD LABOR

(By American Press.)

London, April 3.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette leader, was sentenced today to serve three years at hard labor, the verdict being quickly returned by the jury. Mrs. Pankhurst stated that she had expected conviction but was defiant to the last. She made a statement in which she stated that she was responsible for the destruction of the Lloyd George house.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capp and daughter Miss Fanny have returned from a visit through the west and northwest.

ASKS FOR $5,000 ALIMONY

Rebecca J. Brosius Files Suit For Divorce From Husband.

Rebecca J. Brosius has filed a suit for a divorce from Walter G. Brosius for alleged abandonment and non-support. Brosius is a poultryman at Knightstown and his wife asks that he pay her $50 a month for the support of herself and two minor children. She asks $100 attorneys fees and $5,000 alimony. They were married in March 1909. The court granted a restraining order to prevent her husband from disposing of their furniture.

C. H. & D. RUNS FIRST TRAIN SINCE FLOOD

Bridge at Morristown Still Out And
Service to Indianapolis Is Through Shirley.

OTHER ROADS IMPROVING

The first C. H. & D. train in over a week passed through here this morning but it was forced to go by way of Shirley and then down here over the Big Four. The Morristown bridge is still out and all trains will be sent over this route until the bridge is repaired. The company hoped to have the bridge in so that the trains could go direct to Indianapolis by today but the work was delayed. The train going through this morning was number 31 and was due here at 9:04 o'clock. The schedule announced a few days ago is now in effect and the trains run between Indianapolis and West Hamilton, Ohio.

The Big Four is now running trains on scheduled time and the Chicago division is open between Greensburg and Indianapolis. The service on the local division extends from Louisville to Benton Harbor. The Pennsylvania still maintains a service of one train each way between Richmond and Shelbyville. The I. & C. is rapidly getting the bridge at Morristown in place and hopes to have cars running not later than Sunday.

JAMES M. STRICKER DEAD

Passed Away This Morning at Home
in Orange.

James M. Stricker, 83 years old, died this morning at 6:15 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Edward McClanahan in Orange. Mr. Stricker had been ill a long time, suffering from a complication of diseases and death was expected. He had made his home with Mrs. McClanahan for several years, his wife having died seven years ago. Mr. Stricker is survived by one son, Harry Stricker of this city and one sister Mrs. J. W. Linvale of Glenwood. The funeral services will be held Saturday morning in the Orange M. E. church and burial will take place in the north cemetery.

CHANCE TO EARN 5 DOLLARS

Reward For Ring Left in Trousers
Given Flood Sufferers.

If a flood sufferer in Rushville who received a pair of trousers from the relief committee will search them carefully he may make five dollars. Dr. W. H. Smith has lost a gold Scottish ring which he prized very highly, and he believes that he left it in a pocket in the trousers which he gave to the committee to be used to the factory in the late spring or damaged by the flood. He offers a reward of five dollars for its return.

COUNCIL HAS TO MEET VERY SOON

Unforeseen Complications Will Necessitate
Calling of Special Session of County Appropriating Body.

ESTIMATES ARE BEING MADE.

Surveyor Inspecting Roads and
Bridges Washed by Flood. Can't
All be Done at Once.

An early meeting of the county council will have to be called to make additional appropriations to pay the expenses of the county for the year 1913—expenses which were unforeseen when the last special session of the council was held just after the flood.

The burden of the meeting will be to appropriate funds to replace the bridges and culverts damaged by the flood and to rebuild and repair the roads that were washed out by the high water. Adolphus Cameron, county surveyor, is now busily engaged in preparing an estimate which will be submitted to the county council. It will be his duty to visit every part of the county where the floods wrought havoc to the bridges and roads.

The county commissioners will also assist in the inspection of destruction done by the high water. The board has returned from Williamstown where it held a joint meeting with the Decatur county board of commissioners concerning the damage done a Decatur-Rush county line bridge.

It has already been estimated that the damage to bridges and roads alone in Rush county will reach the enormous sum of two hundred thousand dollars. It will readily be seen that this will be some task for the county commissioners to let all of these contracts for repair and rebuilding.

It can not all be done, of course, and no step even can be taken by the board, except in looking over the situation and helping with the estimates until the county council has made an appropriation. Already there has been an insistent demand from some parts of the county for an early repair of roads and bridges.

There are many cases where bridges were washed out on main lines of travel. In some instances the farmers could not reach Rushville until the waters had gone down. In other cases the farmers have to make wide detours and drive miles out of their way to reach Rushville. Bridges being out alone have not caused the only inconveniences. There are some roads in southern Rush county which were completely washed away, it is said, and will have to be rebuilt entirely.

It is feared that the big flood damage may hinder the payment of taxes. Not that farmers can not reach Rushville by the end of the time for the payment of the spring installment, the first Monday in May, but many of them have suffered such heavy losses that they may find their funds short. For this reason it is believed that there will be more delinquent taxes at the end of the time for the spring installment than there have been in Rush county for years.

Incidentally the county council may have some other little matters in which deficiency appropriations will be needed. The last legislature passed a bill increasing the daily pay of circuit court jurors from two to two and a half dollars a day. This law was not in effect when the 1913 original appropriation was made, and the pay for jurors was considered as being two dollars a day.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Oneal have moved to the Frazier farm a short distance west of the city, which they recently purchased. Mr. and Mrs. John Frazier and family have moved to Rushville.

TO OPEN THEM TO EXAMINATIONS

Pres. Wilson Makes Executive Order to Annul Taft's and Roosevelt's Acts.

FOURTH CLASS POSTOFFICES

Will Be Thrown Open to Examination to Appease Wrath of Democratic Office Seekers.

President Wilson's first executive order has been prepared and is ready to be issued, according to Washington dispatches. It is an order that will affect at least 1,000 postmasters in Indiana. It is probable that it may be issued at any time.

The order annuls the executive orders of Roosevelt and Taft covering fourth-class postmasters under the civil service blanket and throws all such offices where the receipts are $500 a year or more open to civil service examinations.

The order will affect eight fourth-class postmasters in Rush county, and about the same number in all adjoining counties. The postmasters of this class in this county who will be placed under civil service by this order are at New Salem, Milroy, Manila, Arlington, Carthage, Falmouth, Mays and Glenwood.

This order is expected to have two notable results. It will bring about wholesale resignations of fourth-class postmasters who will refuse to take the examinations and it will terminate in giving at least half, and perhaps a considerable majority, of these offices to Democrats.

The order was written by Postmaster General Burleson, and is approved by President Wilson. It also is approved by the Civil Service more than 50,000 postmasters in the United States.

The order has the approval of Senators Shively and Kern and all of the Indiana representatives who are in Washington. It is believed it will be a partial step toward appeasing Democrats who want to see some of the offices passed out to Democrats.

A flood of resignations is expected as soon as the order is issued. Two signed today, Earl Heaston at Deerfield, Randolph county, and J. L. Richards at Treaty, Wabash county. C. A. Wall was appointed to succeed the former and E. E. Duffey to succeed the latter.

MORRISTOWN ASKS TO VOTE

Persons Favoring Establishment of
Saloons Petition for Election.

Persons favoring the establishment of saloons in Hanover township and Morristown, filed a petition before the Shelby county auditor asking the commissioners to call an election to settle the question, and the petition will likely be acted upon early next week, as the commissioners will be in session again next Monday for the regular April term. The petition bears one hundred six signatures, which is considerably more than the twenty per cent of the voters as required by law. The wetts intended to file the petition two months ago, but the matter was dropped at the time.

A township in Kosciusko county has voted "wet" by seven votes. A township and town in White county voted "dry" with a majority of thirteen. Jackson township in Morgan county went "dry" by 130 majority.

GOING BACK TO MADISON.

Tom Worthington has been admitted to the asylum at Madison and will be taken as soon as the railway facilities permit. He has been in the county jail for the past week. This is Worthington's second trip to Madison.

COURSE OF RIVER CHANGED

Flatrock Now Has New Channel
Near St. Paul.

The high waters of last week changed the course of Flatrock in numerous places near St. Paul. Just below the town, near where the Bickhart mill formerly stood and at that is known as "Drusey," the river takes across the road to the north and passed through a field and thence back into its original channel, only to again take out across the road and back to its regular course. The high water also washed many fish out on the banks.

ADDITION MAY BE BUILT TO FACTORY

Charles E. Francis Co. Contemplates
Improvement Which Will be
Larger Than Recent One.

IS NOT DEFINITELY SETTLED

The Charles E. Francis Company, manufacturers of wood working machinery, may build another addition to the factory in the late spring or summer. It was stated at the factory today that the project had been seriously considered and that it might be consummated, although definite conclusion had not been reached.

In all probability, if built the addition will be located west of the present two buildings which front on the railroad just south of the Innis-Pearce furniture factory. The addition will probably be two stories high, and about sixty by a hundred and twenty feet.

This company built an addition to the original building a year ago last spring. The front portion of the building of two stories is used for offices, and the back part which is the ware room, although of the same height, is only one story. This addition is thirty by a hundred and twenty feet.

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Ottinger Succumbs From Complication of Diseases.

Mrs. Evaline N. Ottinger, 77 years old, wife of Martin Ottinger, died this morning about three o'clock at her home in West Third street. Mrs. Ottinger had been ill for several months suffering from a complication of diseases and death was expected. She is survived by her husband and two children, Mrs. William Harding of this city and Mrs. Edward Hunter of Franklin county. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the late residence at two o'clock. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

TO BEGIN WORK AT ONCE

Gun and Country Club Prepares for
Tennis and Shoot.

The first big shoot at the Rushville Gun and Country Club will be held July 16th, when, it is believed, the best men in the profession will be here. It will be a registered tournament. Work will be started at once to make repairs where the flood did damage to the grounds. A trap which was washed out has been found near the railroad bridge over the race. At the meeting this week Dr. P. H. Chadwick was elected president; Dr. Carl F. Behr, vice-president; Will C. McColgin, secretary, and Wilbur Stiers, treasurer. The directors are Ben A. Cox, Carl F. Behr, F. M. Sparks, P. H. Chadwick, R. C. Hargrove, Wilbur Stiers and W. C. McColgin.

WIFE DIES IN HUSBAND'S ARMS

Mrs. Clarence Dillon Breathes Last
When Refuge From Piqua
Flood is Only Few Feet Away.

LUCID LETTER FROM DILLON

Describes Agony he and Family Suffered as House Floated Down
River and Struck Bridge.

From the pen of a man, Clarence Dillon, who passed through the most fearful experience possible in the Piqua flood and still escaped with his life, who had the heart rending experience of feeling his wife die in his arms when a refuge was only a few feet away, comes the lucid story of the rescue of himself and his children as their house, with them on the roof, floated down the river and struck the railroad bridge. Mr. Dillon and family moved from here to Piqua a few years ago. The letter was received by his aunt, Mrs. Selman Webb, 926 West Third street.

"For four days, beginning Easter Sunday," he says, "the rain fell incessantly. Monday there was a cloudburst. No one seemed to think there would be any danger and very few left their homes. I was up in town that awful Monday night to see the river which was on such a terrible rampage. I came home and told Abbie (his wife) about it and she thought we had better get our chickens in the house. We did, and just as we were carrying the last ones in, the levee broke about four squares north of us and here, came the water rushing down the street.

"It was impossible then to get away. Everybody took what they could with them upstairs. In three hours the water was eighteen feet around our house and steadily rising. It was impossible for men to describe the terrible suspense of that awful night. I would have gone crazy had I been a wicked man. I trusted to Him and did all in my power to comfort Abbie and the children. Many times that night we knelt and asked God to help save us. Abbie was awful brave.

"All about us we could hear men and women crying piteously for help. We could see houses leaving their foundations and going down the current which went by our house.

"All night long we watched the water, hoping and praying it would recede. At last morning came, but with no help. About nine o'clock Tuesday morning the water entered our upstairs rooms. I stood upon a chiffonier, and with the stand of a shoe last, made a hole and pushed the family up into the attic. I then made a hole through the roof.

"About eleven o'clock, the water being twenty-two feet deep all around us, our house was lifted from its foundation and down into that terrible current it went. We were all huddled into a little group. Abbie was sitting in front of me, Merle on the right of me and the rest of the children to the left. I gave up all hope and then told Abbie we would all be together in a better world. Only those who have been in my situation can know what feelings I had.

"I can hear Abbie and those little children praying and begging for help, and I could not help them, and above that to hear the house twisting and breaking apart. I closed my eyes when crash went our house against something and stopped. We were all pinioned so tight we could not move. All of us except Abbie and Dwight began to cry for help.

"It was the railroad bridge and we were wedged between it and a new cement abutment that was erected this summer. Six or eight men immediately began to dig into the wreckage with saws and crowbars. Glen was the first released, and he told them that there were

River Improvement.

In the springs of past years the floods in the river bottoms of the streams of the middle west have risen slowly and the loss of property and life has been small as compared to the flood of last week. The present flood is more in the nature of a sudden calamity, an unannounced and unprepared for devastating deluge. The loss of life has been appalling. So closely are families all over the country connected that there can scarcely be a city in any state which does not number many who must mourn relatives lost in one or more of the storms or floods. The nearness of it all and our personal interest in the victims and place are apt to give us a wrong perspective, and cause us to forget that only last year 40,000 were drowned by floods in China, and that great disasters have caused larger loss of life in other countries at various times without making much impression upon us. We have need to remember these things in times of personal trial.

The nature of the floods in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Dayton, Hamilton and other places where there has been such loss of life is quite different from the overflow floods of our large rivers in times of continued rains. They were caused by the sudden rise of water in comparatively small streams from torrential rains.

Cities along such streams, especially if built on low ground, are constantly in danger from such an overwhelming whenever the proper conditions occur. No general scheme of river improvement and flood control for our large rivers, such as the convention soon to be held in St. Louis will consider, would have much effect in averting calamities of this character. They are a penalty we pay for building our cities on low ground.

We are reminded that once upon a time not many years back it was proposed that Flatrock be straightened and dredged. This proposal met with derision in many quarters. Yet that improvement could have been made at a cost which would have been a small figure compared to the present loss in Rush county.

Yet, while river improvement can not do much to avert such sudden overflowing of their banks by small streams, every facility for the quick passage of water from the interior to the sea must have some effect in that direction. Certainly these floods and their terrible toll of life and property will stimulate sentiment for national river improvement and flood control, and the convention about to meet in St. Louis seems to have hit upon the psychological moment to get a hearing from the people and their representatives in Washington.

ART EXHIBIT
OPENS TODAY

Graham School Houses Collection of
Two Hundred Pictures Including
Masterpieces of all Ages.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO ASSIST

Proceeds Will be Used to Buy Art
With Which to Beautify The Public Schools.

The art exhibit was open to the public at the Graham school building this afternoon at one-thirty o'clock. The exhibit may be seen this evening from 7:30 to 9 o'clock and tomorrow afternoon and night at the same hours as today.

The exhibit has a local tinge. The proceeds will be used to buy pictures to beautify the public schools. Both this evening and tomorrow evening entertainment will be given by the school children to add to the enjoyment of the occasion. The audience will be shown over the building and will see some of the work of the public school.

The collection of art consists of about two hundred pictures in reproduction of the world's greatest masterpieces of architecture, sculpture and painting. The pictures are alike interesting to all ages and classes of people, and enthusiastic expressions of appreciation are heard on all sides.

The pictures are arranged chronologically and grouped geographically, following the east, north and west wall, and finishing with comparatively modern English and American art on the entrance side of the hall.

The collection has a distinctly educational purpose in view, being arranged to show the development of art from the pyramids and temples of Egypt through the fine old classic architecture and sculpture, Italian painting, Dutch, French, Spanish, English and American.

Most of the pictures are reproduced in carbon process, but there are a few engravings and a group of color work representing the drawings of modern German artists, made originally on stone. There are also two intensely brilliant Venetian pictures, one of St. Mark's Cathedral, and the other a scene along the picturesque Grand Canal. The pictures are most interesting and are the finest collection of their kind ever shown in this city.

Genuine artistic merit is the quality for which they have been chosen, and the selection has been made by some of the most eminent art critics of this country. The pictures themselves are not on sale, nor are orders solicited.

COMMENTS ARE IN PRAISE OF MORRIS

Rushville Boy Wins Honors at Peoples Symphony Concert in Carnegie Hall, New York.

HAS PART IN JOINT RECITAL

Carl Morris, formerly of this city, was one of the soloists at a recital at Carnegie hall in New York a week ago Sunday, and the delayed mails have just now brought word of his pronounced triumph.
The New York Evening Telegram says there "were seven recalls for Carl Morris at the People's symphony concert in Carnegie hall, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Morris sang Renato's recitative and aria "Eni Tu" from Verdi's "The Masked Ball." He has a clear, resonant voice, and used it with grace and understanding. His style is essentially dramatic and there is every indication that Mr. Morris' future lies in that field."
The New York Herald is equally as enthusiastic in its praise: "To many in the audience the remarkable similarity between his (Morris') and Riccardo Martin's voice was apparent, even though one is baritone and the other tenor. Mr. Morris' voice is one of ample volume and appealing resonance."
The New York Evening Mail says: "The third orchestral concert in the thirteenth season of Mr. Arens, educational work had as soloists Carl Morris and Maximilian Pilzer."
"Mr. Morris sang in place of John Barnes Wells, whose appearance will be deferred until next season. He brought to the concert stage a fresh young voice of fine resonance and carrying power, with exceptional breath control."
"Mr. Morris well deserved the seven recalls, and it may be said incidentally that for a number of years his studies have been made under Mr. Arens."

TEST WELL WILL BE DUG VERY SOON

Knightstown is Excited Over Discovery of Oil in Vicinity—300 Acre Farm Leased.

BLUFFTON MAN IN THE FIELD

It is now almost assured that a test well for oil will be drilled in the vicinity of Knightstown within ninety days.
R. K. Souder of Bluffton, who recently leased the Edmund White farm of over 300 acres, just northeast of Knightstown, has followed this lease with others in the same vicinity, and now has 900 acres under lease. Mr. Souder states that he will not sink a test well until he gets at least 1,200 acres, but that he has this practically in sight.
Some will not sign leases because they do not like "the smell" of crude oil, but none object to the "long green" that will follow a lease provided oil is found. Several years ago a gas well west of the town, near the bridge over Montgomery creek, flowed a small quantity of oil.

ANOTHER HONEST MAN.

The noble aid and help given to the flood sufferers by the people of the United States was another very severe blow to the pessimist who declares the world is growing worse instead of better, says the Shelbyville Democrat. The pessimist was also given another severe blow this morning when August Coers, a prominent farmer of Orange township, Rush county, found a pocketbook containing sixty dollars or more in money, checks and note, three miles east of Blue Ridge, while on his way to this city. After examining the contents of the pocketbook he learned the owner was Floyd Branson, of Gowdy, and when he reached Blue Ridge telephoned him. Mr. Branson had been breaking a colt and had driven along the road at the place in a heavy cart. The pocketbook worked out of his pocket in some manner.

DESPAIRING NOTE IN PIQUA LETTER

Mrs. Chase Saddler Writes Relatives She Wishes She Had Gone Down With Her Home.

HARDENED BY EXPERIENCE

Works in Morgue With Embalmers Over Bodies of Her Own Relatives. Unbelievable Stories.

The note of despair that is in the hearts of the people of Piqua, Dayton and other Ohio cities, where the flood caused a heavy loss of life and property, is sounded in the opening sentence of a letter written by Mrs. Chase Saddler, formerly of this city and a survivor of the Piqua flood, to Mrs. Lewis Saddler of this city.
"I suppose you know by this time that we are alive," she writes, "but I almost wish we had gone down with our furniture. We haven't a thing to our name except a few things we saved, such as a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes."
"Martha was drowned, and I almost went down with her. Grace is dead, and Chase and I are the only man and wife left out of our bunch. I was in the water a half hour trying to save my mother."
"We were at Hattie's Monday night when the police came horseback and yelled for us to run. We saw the water coming. It was terrible. Chase grabbed Russell and I took my mother. We stepped out of the door to our waists in water and felt it rising higher every second. I dragged my mother to our house, because it is higher, but I thought we would drown every moment."
"They shouted for us to run to the hills. The water was higher than a man's head. People went to their attics and dug holes in their roof, and such screams I never heard in all my life. The water was up to their necks and little babies were held up above water to keep them from drowning. I can shut my eyes now and see them going down."
"We went through everything but death to get to the old homestead. We had to walk on ladders over deep gullies, holding on to ropes. I think I lost my senses because I do not remember anything until they put dry clothes on me."
We stood on the hill and watched dozens drown. I saw Martha, Frank and Grace and seven others on a house top, when the house was swept off the foundation. They clung to the roof and dozens floated along, beside them. The house struck something and they were thrown into the air. They all drowned except Frank and George who hung to a tree for more than a day before help could reach them. Frank was half dead.
"They are bringing the bodies to the house where we are. Another woman and I are laying them out. We had to tear the frozen clothes from their bodies."
Mrs. Saddler concluded the letter the next day. It is written on the fly leaves, yellow with age, taken from an old book.
"The water flowed over the top of our house, but has gone down now so we can get in. There isn't fifty cents worth of furniture left. Everything is smashed to pieces. The mud is eight inches deep on the walls and floor."
"There are hundreds of soldiers on guard, but still people are stealing. The guards this afternoon arrested a man who had four fingers off a dead woman's hand, with rings on them, in his pocket."
"I can hardly realize yet that we are safe. I am so hardened by laying out these dead, frozen bodies and working here in the morgue with these undertakers that I think nothing will ever affect me again."
"Chase and some men found Grace's frozen body hanging on a thorn tree yesterday. We had to tear her clothes off. I help the undertaker embalm her and never shed a tear. I feel like I was in a trance."
"I could tell you people things you wouldn't think could be real. One man cut his throat just as his house struck the bridge and one woman suddenly became a raving maniac while her husband and five little children clung to the roof of their house as it floated down the river. Her husband had to tie her fast with the bed clothing they had to keep warm with. There was no way to reach them.

"Some hung to trees and wreckage for 36 hours in the bitter cold. We watched Frank cling to broken parts of houses for 12 hours yelling for help before we could get him out. They are fishing out bodies on both sides of the river. I have stood it pretty well, but if they bring me Martha's body, I can never lay it out because I am about done for."

RETURNS TO WORK IN NEW YORK CITY

Miss Edith Holden Receives Promotion to Y. M. C. A. Extension Work After Enforced Vacation.

While A. R. Holden, county auditor, was looking through the current issue of the "Good Housekeeping" magazine, he noticed a picture, illustrating an article by Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of President Wilson, which attracted his attention. One girl in the picture looked strangely familiar. At a second glance he was convinced that it was that of his daughter, Miss Edith Holden, who, until last year was a Y. W. C. A. worker in New York City.

It developed that the picture was one taken at the Silver Spring conference, Lake George, New York, of Y. W. C. A. workers. Miss Holden was plainly shown in the picture that was of a May pole dance. Miss Holden and one other delegate represented the western New York branch of the Y. W. C. A. Formerly she was assistant secretary. She was taken sick with diphtheria last summer and had to return home. During the winter Miss Holden acted as assistant pastor and social worker of the Main Street Christian church. She left last evening for New York where she will take up her chosen work. Miss Holden has been promoted to assistant secretary of extension work.

ONE CASE DISMISSED.

It was again quiet in court today, very little of importance coming before Judge Megee. The case of the Arlington Bank against Oliver Offutt, on a note, demanding $780 was dismissed and the costs paid. In the suit of Glenna H. Hall against Howard A. Overleese, for conveyance of real estate, the court found for the plaintiff.

RALEIGH COMMENCEMENT.

The commencement exercises of the Raleigh high school were held last night in the town hall there. The Rev. L. E. Brown of Connorsville delivered the class address in the absence of James E. Watson, who was unable to attend on account of a previous engagement. This year's class consisted of six members.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

A marriage license was issued this morning to Bernard Laughlin and Mary Suntrup.

Relatives here have received word that Charles Guild, formerly of this city, is ill with typhoid fever at his home in Covington, Ky.

The district meeting of the Red Men which was to have been held today in Connorsville, has been postponed until April 30.

The Friday Afternoon Social club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Scott Conde in North Maple street. A three course luncheon was served.

The Art Exhibit is open each afternoon and evening. Do not delay seeing it. 1713.

LOST—A gold Scottish rite ring with diamond setting. Think ring was left in trousers given to Flood Relief Committee. Reward of $5 will be given for the return of ring to Dr. W. H. Smith. 1844.

DIES IN HUSBAND'S ARMS

more under there. Florence was next. Glen and she have not a scratch. Marion was taken next. Her ankle was mashed. Merle's shoe had to be cut from his foot to release him. Dwight was next. I thought he was dead, but he was only unconscious, both bones in his left leg being broken. I was saved out next and have a wrenched back but no broken bones.

"I had both arms around Abbie's neck. She was very still. In a moment there was a slight trembling of the body, and I knew God had taken her.

"We, except Abbie, were hurried to the Y. M. C. A. building, our wounds were dressed, we were taken to a minister's home and then to mother's. Those men, when they saw Abbie was dead and that it was impossible to release her without endangering their own lives, put a rope around her body and tied it to the bridge. But the current was so swift that the rope broke.

"Wednesday morning she was seen to be lodged in a tree four or five squares below the bridge. An expert oarman from Cincinnati, who saved many lives, ventured across and tied a rope around her body. It took twenty-five men to pull her body through that current.

"Just to show you how strong the current was, a box car loaded with cement was carried two squares from the track. An iron car loaded with crushed stone was carried a square away.

"We buried Abbie Friday. Her body was the first one found. I bought a lot and thought it best to bury her here where we could take care of her grave and have her as near us as possible. Twenty-six bodies have been found to date and any more are missing."

A petition is being circulated here by W. E. Wallace and Alva Newhouse to aid Mr. Dillon. The paper was being signed freely today and it is expected that considerable money can be sent to Piqua. The petition is headed by the local Odd Fellows lodge, which subscribed $25.
